Baccalaureate Sunday

We welcome to our Baccalaureate Sunday service today the more than 1,200 candidates for graduation who have completed the requirements for their respective courses in the different disciplines they have chosen from seventeen colleges and academic units of the university. We also extend our warm greetings and congratulations to their parents, family members, friends and loved ones who have supported and prayed for their success and who have come to be part of this joyous event. Indeed, this is a day of celebration and a moment for us to express our thanksgiving to our God who has guided and blessed the academic journeys of our graduating students this year. We also welcome all our guests and visitors who are attending both the Baccalaureate service and the Commencement exercises this afternoon.

We especially extend our warm welcome to our guest preacher this morning, Dr. Epifania D. Anfone, a member of the Board of Trustees of Silliman University. She will be introduced during the service by the President of Silliman University, Dr. Betty C. McCann.

Third Sunday of Lent:

We are having this great day of celebration even as we are also observing the third Sunday of Lent. We call on our brothers and sisters to continue in the observance of this season in the spirit of prayer, quiet meditation and discernment on the claims and demands of our faith as we confess the Lordship of Jesus Christ in our life. Let us continue to reflect on the meaning of the suffering Jesus had undergone for the sake of our own redemption and forgiveness of our sin.

March 22 is United Nations World Water Day: Water for All
 Whoever you are, wherever you are, water is a human right. Water is a precious resource, so let's conserve it.
Here are some tips:
 Take only enough to quench your thirst, when taking water for drinking.
 Use water economically while taking a bath and washing clothes.
 Report to the authorities if leaking of a faucet/pipe is observed in a public place.

Do rainwater harvesting and filter it before use.
 Advocate for the sustainable management of resources.
